RUSSELL KORORAREKA

FIELD TRIP

A great day out that's educational & fun

If your school or school-age group is planning a trip to Northland then here's a great interactive day out for your group. Join the tall ship R. Tucker Thompson and experience a great day out in Russell Kororareka. Not only educational, covering history, social studies, outdoor education, but also plus a whole heap of fun for caregivers and students alike!

In partnership with Kororareka Marae, Pompallier Mission, Russell Museum and the Department of Conservation, the R.Tucker Thompson has developed an exciting education experience for school aged groups visiting Russell Kororareka in the Bay of Islands. Affordable and fun, it is not to be missed.

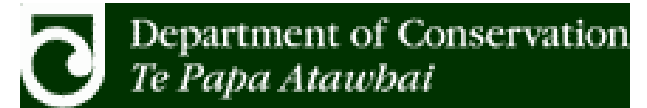

Haratu – Whare Mahi o Kororareka Marae

Let Haratu provide a cultural welcome to Russell Kororareka. When you arrive in town there will be a Mihi (welcome) followed by a presentation of the history of the area. Learn about the Early Māori Settlement, the Battle of Kororareka and how the Kororareka Marae Society came about obtaining such an historical site.

Pompallier Mission & Printery

Hands-on experiences in New Zealand's only surviving pioneer printery & tannery. Stories of the French Catholic missionaries who made Maori language books here, Bishop Pompallier's contribution to the Treaty of Waitangi, and how the war that followed affected his mission & relationships with Maori in Kororareka and the Bay of Islands. More serious fun!

Interactive hands-on sessions for all age groups led by DOC staff on how pest invasions in the past have resulted in today's environmental landscape in the Bay of Islands. Information about Project Island Song and the pest-free islands of the Bay as well as current environmental management, native birds and programmes to restore our natural environment.

Russell Museum
Te Whare Taonga O Kororareka

Russell Museum tells the story of its township, recording the earliest years of Māori/European contact, including a 1:5 scale model of Captain James Cook's Endeavour. There are also artefacts relating to the town's 100 years as a port of call for whaling ships. A 12-minute video outlines the town's history. The Museum sells Heritage Trail booklets which are perfect for groups to use to explore the town and its vicinity. The shop specialises in Northland books and souvenirs from the area.
