The Register identifies New Zealand's significant and valued historical and cultural heritage places. It assists heritage to be protected and conserved.

The Register is divided into four parts:

Historic places – such as archaeological sites, buildings, memorials.

Category I – a place of special or outstanding historical or cultural significance or value, or Category II – a place of historical or cultural significance or value.

Historic areas – groups of related historic places such as a geographical area containing a number of properties or structures, a heritage precinct or a cultural landscape.

Wāhi tapu – places sacred to Māori in the traditional, spiritual, religious, ritual or mythological sense such as maunga tapu (mountains), urupā (cemeteries), funerary sites and punawai (springs).

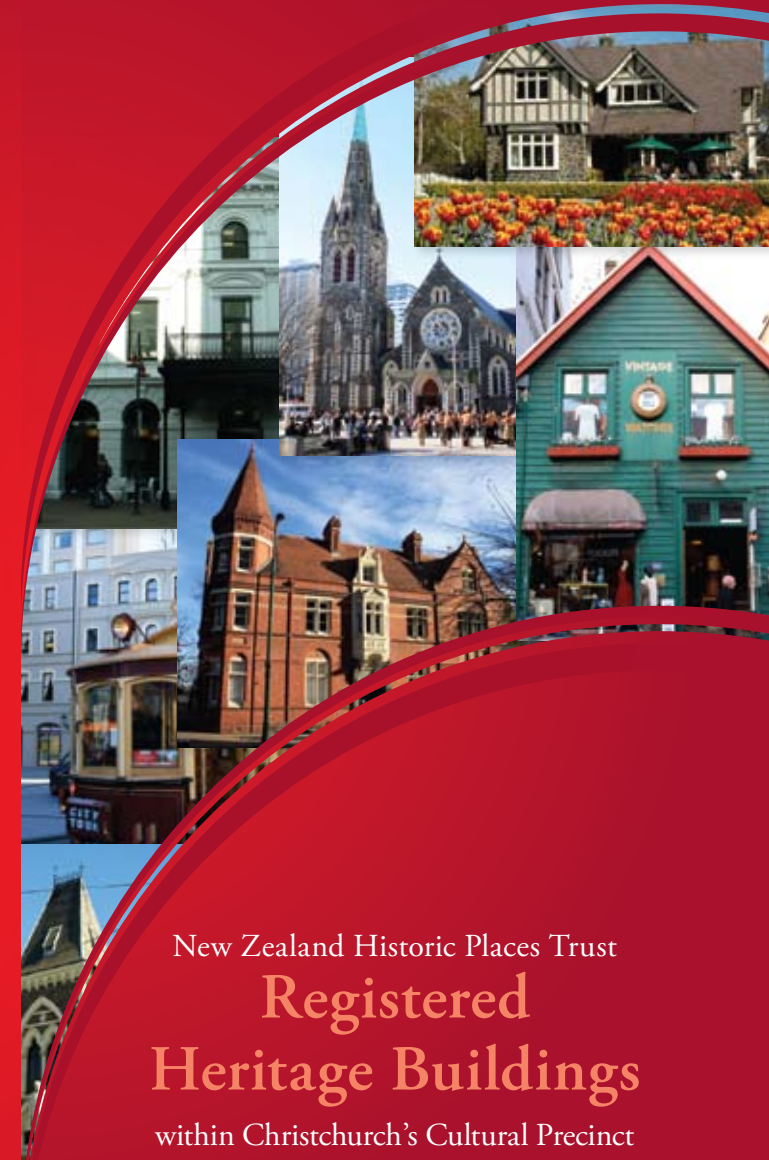

Wāhi tapu areas – areas that contain one or more wāhi tapu.
